Q&A

with Michelle Pleet, Benefits Manager
at Renaissance Learning

As a benefits professional, what are the things that are important to you and your team?

“Flexibility and having a deep understanding of benefits is extremely important to us – especially in our organization’s growth. We need to be able to depend on our partners during acquisition and merger activities and get the support we need to properly manage our benefits plan and total rewards strategy. Renaissance has been constantly evolving with the shift to self-funded in 2017, and a total of five acquisitions since 2019!”

How does Benefitfocus simplify benefits for employees and for your team?

“It’s the internal efficiencies we’re now able to take advantage of with having a more interconnected system. Prior to Benefitfocus, we were on a paper system and completing forms with no visibility or automation with our payroll files. Now we can operate more efficiently to better serve our employees and enhance their experience. Also, our Customer Success Manager Nishla has been wonderful – her follow through and her knowledge of how to work with the systems to escalate and find solutions has led to our stable partnership.”

What about this open enrollment were you most excited about?

“This year was one of the most accurate renewals we’ve ever had, and testing was the smoothest we’ve ever experienced! Every year you always stress about being prepared and everything being accurate in the system, and I felt that our Benefitplace platform was well-prepared, well-tested, and accurate!”
